

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Getting involved by volunteering is the best way to stay connected, meet new friends, network, learn, and make positive contributions to the success of our congregation. All members are encouraged to participate in at least one standing committee. No prior experience is necessary.

STANDING COMMITTEES

Adult Education Committee:

Work in conjunction with the clergy and staff to administer and promote classes and programs of Jewish education and interest for our adult congregation members and greater community.

Bulletin/Communications Committee:

Work in conjunction with the Executive Director and staff to produce a regularly scheduled bulletin and weekly electronic newsletter that accurately conveys the scope of synagogue activities, represents the views and interests of the congregation and promotes a positive public image.

Capital Funds Committee:

Be responsible for the continuing and long-term fundraising projects of the congregation such as the endowment program, memorial plaques, the Tree of Life and the annual High Holiday Appeal.

Housing and Beautification Committee:

Work in conjunction with the Executive Director to maintain all of the real and personal properties of the congregation.

Membership/Retention Committee:

Work in conjunction with the clergy and staff to plan and supervise the enrollment of new members in the congregation and establish a program to encourage the retention of existing members.

Religious Education Committee:

Work in conjunction with the clergy to establish the goals and educational objectives and standards of the Religious School, including preparation for b'nai mitzvah.

Religious Services Committee:

Cooperate with the Rabbi, Hazzan and Education Director in planning the ritual and worship of the congregation.

Social Action Committee:

Work in conjunction with the clergy and staff to bring to the attention of the congregation issues concerning the social, political, environmental and economic welfare of our community, our nation, Israel and the world.

Strategic Planning Committee:

Have the responsibility for developing long-term strategic plans which are consistent with the goals of the congregation and designed to meet the needs and wants of the community.

Ways and Means Committee:

Work in conjunction with the Executive Director and staff to plan and promote fundraising projects.

Youth Activities Committee:

Work in conjunction with the clergy and staff to arrange and promote a program of activities suitable and appropriate for the synagogue youth.
